

Table of Contents

Preface	xiii
Introduction	xv
Evolving Technology	xv
What This Guidebook Is Not	xvi
Virtual Volunteering Is Part of All Volunteering	xvi
Who Should Read This Book?	xvii
1 Understanding Virtual Volunteering	1
What Is “Virtual Volunteering”?	1
History of Virtual Volunteering	4
Who Volunteers Online and Why	5
More Myths to Dispel	5
Why Involve Online Volunteers?	6
Is Your Organization Ready for Virtual Volunteering?	7
The Challenges of Cyberspace	8
2 Getting Ready for Virtual Volunteering	13
What Is Already Happening at Your Organization?	13
Are Volunteers Visible on Your Web Site Today?	14
Overcoming Resistance	14
Resistance from the Volunteer Resources Manager	15
Resistance from IT Staff	15
What Will Virtual Volunteering Cost?	15
Allocation of Staff Time	16
Tech-Related Issues	16
Policies and Procedures	17
Communicating Your Policies	19
Recordkeeping Systems	19

Basic Internet Tools	19
Asynchronous Tools	20
Synchronous Tools	20
Basic Online Communication	21
The Myth of “They Do Not Have Internet Access”	21
E-mail and More	22
Online Communities	22
Starting an Online Forum for Volunteers	23
A Successful Online Forum	24
Applying This to All Volunteers	24
Cyber Deputies	25
Solidifying the Organization’s Commitment	26
3 Designing Virtual Volunteering Assignments	29
Be Open to What Online Volunteers Can Do	29
Virtual Volunteering Assignments Requiring a Little Bit of Time	30
Byte-Sized Assignments or Micro-volunteering	31
Trial Runs	32
Crowdsourcing	32
On-Call Expertise	34
Spontaneous Online Volunteers	35
Other Short-Term Online Supporters	35
Virtual Volunteering Assignments That Require a Greater Time Commitment	35
Technical Assistance/Pro Bono Service	36
Volunteer-Generated Assignments	36
Putting It in Writing	37
Skill Level Needed	38
4 Interviewing and Screening Online Volunteers	41
The Realities of Cyberspace Immediacy	41
Online Volunteer Application Form	43
Legal Waivers	43
Application Addenda for Virtual Volunteering	44
Getting to Know Applicants	44
Conduct an Interview	44
Check Credentials	46

Legal Screening Requirements	47
Paying to Volunteer Online?	47
Using the Web to Learn More about a Candidate	47
Negotiating the Role	48
Setting the Initial Time Commitment	48
Candidates Self-Screening Out—and In.	49
Special Screening Situations	50
Court-Ordered and Other Mandated Service	50
Students Fulfilling an Academic Requirement	52
Applicants under Age 18.	52
Expert Volunteers	53
Setting the Tone Early	53
5 Orienting and Training Online Volunteers	55
New Volunteer Orientation.	55
Moving from Onsite to Online Presentation.	56
Online Video Orientation.	56
The Case for Putting All Your Volunteering Information Online	57
Real-Life Examples of Effective Orientation	57
Volunteer Handbooks and Instruction Sheets	62
The Online Volunteer’s Point of Contact	63
Training Online Volunteers	63
Special Training Issues	64
Confidentiality and Privacy	64
The Volunteer’s E-mail Address	65
Addressing Online Volunteers’ Concerns with Written Agreements	65
Volunteer Experts	66
Training Paid Staff	66
Timing	67
6 Basic Techniques for Working Online with Volunteers: What Everyone Should Know	69
A Designated Contact	69
Developing Relationships with Online Volunteers	70
Real-Life Examples.	71
Developing a Great Reporting Process	72

Communicating Online.	73
Different Online Writing Styles.	73
Communicating with Young Volunteers	74
Using Real-Time Communications	75
Instant Messaging	76
Web Conferencing	76
Experimenting with Advanced Internet Tools	77
Some More Ideas	77
Some Possible Issues.	78
Survey Tools and Online Scheduling	79
Social Media Interconnectedness	79
Policy Considerations	80
Virtual Volunteering Teams.	81
Challenges and Advantages to a Virtual Team	82
Considering Who Should Be on the Team	82
Getting an Online Team Started	83
Introductions.	83
Communication Options	84
The Team Leader’s Role	85
Employee/Volunteer (Onsite and Online) Relationships.	85
Troubleshooting Not-So-Virtual Problems.	87
Online Volunteers Who Cross Behavior Boundaries.	88
Firing an Online Volunteer.	89

7	Advanced Techniques for Working Online with Volunteers: Making the Most of Evolving Technology Tools	91
	Blogging by, for, and about Volunteers.	91
	How to Create Your Blog	92
	What to Say in Your Blog	92
	Micro-blogging	93
	Messages with a Purpose	94
	Micro-blogging Platforms	96
	Texting Your Location	96
	Live Tweet Chats/Live Micro-blogging	97
	Other Live Online Events	98
	Podcasts and Videos	101

Online Activism	102
Spontaneous Volunteers Responding Virtually.	103
Virtual Board Meetings.	104
Avatar-Based Environments	105
Distributed Computing and Crowdsourcing.	106
Keeping Up with Changes and Trends	106
8 Online Volunteers Working Directly with Clients	109
Expanding Onsite Activity with Online Service	110
Extra Attention to Direct Service Online Volunteers	110
Deciding to Interview Online or Onsite	110
Training	111
Supervision and Communication	111
Performance Assessment	112
Risk Management	112
Real-Life Example.	113
More Suggestions	113
Balancing Privacy and Safety	114
Online Boundaries	114
Online Mentoring	115
Mapping Collaboration	116
Decisions on Program.	116
Site Managers.	116
Where the Students Are.	120
Everything Else Still Applies!	120
9 Accessibility and Diversity	123
Benefits of Diversity.	123
Accommodating Language Diversity	124
Accommodating People with Physical Disabilities.	124
Adapting Online Tools.	125
Accommodating Learning and Emotional Disabilities	127
Language That Welcomes Everyone	128
Reaching Out and Tracking Progress	129
Final Thoughts	129

10	Evaluating and Recognizing Online Service	131
	Why Evaluate?	131
	Creating a Welcoming Culture for Feedback	132
	Formal Evaluation Techniques	132
	What Do You Want to Know?	132
	Collecting Data	132
	Surveying Volunteers	133
	Surveying Paid Staff	134
	Analyzing the Data	137
	Reporting	137
	Encouraging Ongoing Input	137
	How to Handle Online Criticism.	138
	Complaints That Go Too Far	141
	Complaints on a Third-Party Site.	141
	Individual Performance Assessment	142
	Rejecting or Firing a Volunteer for Personal Online Activity.	143
	Linking to Personal Volunteer Sites	144
	Recognition	144
	A Starter Set of Recognition Ideas	145
	Online Recognition for All Volunteers.	147
	Promote Virtual Volunteering Activities In-House	149
11	Recruiting Online Volunteers (Finally!)	151
	General versus Specific Recruitment.	151
	Start with Onsite Volunteers	152
	Reaching Out Online	152
	Your Web Site Comes First	153
	Attracting Interest in Volunteering	153
	Getting Specific	153
	Inviting Unexpected Offers.	154
	Keep Information Current!	155
	Negotiating with or around a Resistant Webmaster.	155
	Going Independent.	155
	Web Sites Specifically for Volunteer Recruitment	156

Choosing the Best Site for You	157
Appealing Posts That Attract Volunteers	157
Revisit Your Postings	158
Using Other Web Resources	158
Social Media	159
Online Discussion Groups	159
Intranets	160
Traditional Communication Channels	160
Traditional Mass Media	160
Volunteer Centers and Other Clearinghouses	161
Target Marketing	161
Recruiting Experts for Specialized Assignments	161
Your Recruitment Message	162
Vocabulary Matters	162
Prepare Your Organization	163

12 For Online Volunteers	165
Before You Volunteer Virtually	165
Self-Quiz	166
Where to Find Virtual Volunteering Opportunities	167
Designing Your Own Virtual Volunteering Opportunity	168
Tips for a Successful Virtual Volunteering Experience	168
Staying on Top of E-mail	170
Do's and Don'ts for Sharing Expertise Online	170
If You Are Volunteering Computer and Software Expertise	172
Share Your Experience!	173
Online Boundaries	173
You Are Needed and Wanted!	174
Conclusion: What's Next?	175
Appendix A: Virtual Volunteering Myths	177
Appendix B: Recommended Resources	181
About the Authors	185
Index	187